Mr. Fred Devine writes to his friends at home of his having spent a delightful visit with Mr. Duke Rudy of Maysville, who is now stationed only three miles from the young soldier in Basoibepo, Isthmian Canal Zone, Panama.

Judge W. G. Dearing, Collector of the Port at Louisville has asked the United States Grand Jury, to investigate the charges made by The Courier-Journal that the employees of his building are being assessed for campaign purposes.

Miss Sue C. Nelson, who was shot last Christmas Eve by her uncle, Charles Stewart, at Lexington, because she allowed her sweetheart to remain too late when he called, died Tuesday from the wound. Stewart is now serving a two-year sentence at the Frankfort Penitentiary, but may be indicted again and tried for murder.

Fleming Gazette—Fleming county is right at the front in producing good horses. B. W. Overley of Tilton last week sold Langhorne Anderson of Mason, a fancy harness mare for $1,000. She was out of Old King and carried off a number of premiums at the different fairs over the state. It is said Mr. Anderson bought her for Eastern parties. This mare and another will form a fancy harness team to go to Paris, France. Mr. Overley says the mare he sold brought the highest price ever paid for a harness mare from Fleming county.

TELEPHONE CONNECTIONS

Rumored That the Bell System Will Reach Maysville

The Dover News says it has it from high authority that the Mason County Mutual Telephone Company will pass into the hands of the Bell Telephone Company within the next few days, arrangements for the transfer having been completed.

This will give the present patrons of the Mutual connection with the outside world. It is a part of the agreement with the Mutual stockholders that they shall have the use of the Bell 'phones for fifteen years at an annual rental of $12.

It is also stipulated that a complete metallic circuit be installed, which makes the service satisfactory for any distance, and you can then talk direct to Cincinnati. The metallic circuit also cuts out all outside talk and "rubbering" and the connection is made only between the two phones in use.

The Bell people have been trying for some time to get into Maysville and this deal not only lets that company into Maysville, but all over Mason county at the same time.

The Court of Appeals Tuesday affirmed the suit of Smoot vs. Kirk, taken up from this county.

Don't forget the dates, 21st, 22d and 23d. If you are looking for Bargains in hand-some things see Millard Merz.

Prayer service at the Third Street Methodist Church tonight will be of the nature of an "Echo from the Convention" held at Newport last week. Several of the delegates who attended will speak. Everybody invited. Come and bring your Bibles. Service begins at 7:15.

THERE'S trouble bruin' for something or somebody down in the 'brakes of Louisiana.

An attempt will be made at Louisville to close the theaters on Sunday. It will require some fine work to close the "Buck."

An old Confederate veteran introduced Mr. WILLSON to his Bowling Green audience and pledged him his vote and the votes of many others. The county will go Republican.

ACCORDING to The Atlanta Constitution Chief Chemist WILEY recently gave utterance to this beautiful sentiment: "A drink of real Kentucky whisky, compared to an imitation, is like a beautiful girl compared to a wooden figure in a store window."

MARSE HENRY WATTERSON, in The Courier-Journal, in discussing the Democratic situation, declares he is "not going out to sea in such a leaky craft." The great Editor sees the old ship sinking, and as he is not much of a water-dog or an old salt, he is going to trim his sails so as to make a safe harbor. It's any port in a storm.

THE Demmies are scared as they never were before. It is said that Democratic rallies will be held in every voting precinct in the old Commonwealth between October 21st and November 5th. As there are over 3,000 voting precincts in Kentucky, it's going to be quite an undertaking to successfully hold all these meetings. We repeat, the Demmies are scared.

FANNIE MAY DAVIS, Executrix.
October 15th, 1907. 15-17-19

THE great American game of politics is humming some in Old Kentucky at the present writing.

AND the Democratic Courier-Journal says—"The grand old Commonwealth misrepresented and lowered in public esteem from one end of the land to the other, not a single Kentuckian of National dimensions—if we except Justice HARLAN of the Supreme Court of the United States—left in the public service."

HOWEVER the cat jumps on November 5th, all the indications now point to the triumphant election of WILLSON and Cox. Only the rankest kind of open fraud can compass their defeat. The whole state is aroused, and the matter has now resolved itself into a question of the very moral political existence of Kentucky on the one side, and on the other the delivery of the entire executive, legislative and judicial affairs of the government over to Governor BECKHAM and his co-workers and machine managers for another four years of misrule, hypocrisy, fictitious ballots, Special Judges and the political traffic in and prostitution of everything to advance the interests of the Frankfort machine. Voters, you need not take our word for these charges. Search the files, the records, and inquire into these matters, then if all and more is not true that is alleged against the Frankfort gang of Kentucky political "High Binders," then we'll eat our words, shut up and vote the Democratic ticket in November.

HER SUSPICIOUS NATURE.

"Do you ever take your wife a box of candy or a bunch of violets?"
"Nope."
"And why not? Is she not as dear to you as she was before you married her?"
"Yep, but if I was to send her flowers and candy she'd wonder what crime I was trying to cover up."

Fall and Winter Styles
For the Season 1907.

These patterns are specially designed to meet the requirements of the present season. Those who appreciate swagger styles, newly shaped collars and lapels, shoulders of natural widths and smoothness, sleeves that are truly beautiful, should inspect my work—outlines, character and an individuality that surpasses all styles ever offered by any merchant tailor in this city. Remember, I design patterns for you. Just tell me what you want, how you want it and when you want it. Give me a trial and I will convince you that I can deliver the goods.

HER PARIS HAT

She Didn't Want It Until It Was Sold.

"What a love of a hat!" exclaimed Leslie, as she watched her aunt unpack the trunk so generously decorated with foreign hotel "stickers." Mrs. Blanchard twirled the Paris confection of yellow rosebuds, gold braid and tawny chiffon round on her hand, and Leslie gazed at it admiringly, thinking how pretty it would be with her aunt's auburn hair.
"I'm so glad you like it, Leslie, for I'm going to give it to you."
"To me!"

Mrs. Blanchard was now bending over her trunk, and she did not see the dismay in her niece's frank face when she learned that this rather pronounced hat was to be hers. Leslie heartily wished she had not been so enthusiastic over it.

"It's quite a symphony in color, isn't it?" said Mrs. Blanchard.
"Yes, it's very artistic," murmured Leslie; and then, like a little girl suddenly remembering her manners, "it was very good of you to bring it to me, aunt. Thank you so much!"
"O, I was very glad to bring it to you. You know I believe in making useful gifts."

"Useful gifts!" groaned Leslie, inwardly. Could a hat that would quarrel with every piece of wearing apparel that she owned be called useful? She imagined how glaring it would be with her new Alice-blue suit, and growing suddenly determined, she began bravely: "Aunt, it's a beautiful hat, but I really think you ought—"
"Now, dear, you are not to say a word about my extravagance," laughed the young aunt. "If I wish to buy my favorite niece a pretty hat, I think I may be allowed the pleasure. I'm not such a spendthrift as all the family seem to think, and there is no one to whom I'd rather bring a nice present than you."

Instead of saying, as she had intended, that she thought her aunt ought to keep the hat, which would be so becoming to her, Leslie kissed Mrs. Blanchard and called her a generous old dear.
"It's no use," she said to herself, mournfully, later in the day, after she had tried the hat with her new Alice-blue suit and her last winter's red gown. "I simply can't wear that dreadful thing with any of my clothes, and I must wear it or aunt will think I queer." She wrapped it in tissue paper and sadly put it back in the box. I suppose most girls would be proud of a Paris hat, but it's going to be a pretty expensive luxury for me."

When, a week later, with the help of a sewing woman, Leslie had completed a pretty brown and gold dress, she became reconciled to the offending headgear, which certainly was extremely effective with the soft tones of her new frock. Indeed, she was so pleased with the outfit that she took the first opportunity of appearing in it. She was asked to drop in at a rummage sale that a young ladies' guild was holding in the parlors of a church near her home, and although she knew that "dress-up" clothes were scarcely appropriate, she could not resist wearing her new gown and Paris hat. There was quite a rush of customers at the time that she arrived, and the amateur saleswomen found their hands full in waiting upon them.

"Do take off your hat and pitch right in," said one of Leslie's friends. "We need all the help we can get."

In a moment Leslie was behind the counter, showing goods. When the last articles were sold, she turned with a tired sigh to put on her hat and go home. But where was it? She looked where she had left it, but it was not there.

"Have you seen my hat?" she asked one of the girls. "I took it off here."

"No, but probably some one put it in the cloakroom with ours," was the answer; but Leslie did not find it there.

"What are you looking for?" asked a 16-year-old boy, who had volunteered to help his sister at the sale. "My hat. It's sort of yellowish brown."

"Yellowish brown?" he repeated. "Is it kind of squishy, with little bits of rosebuds on it?"

"Yes," answered Leslie, eagerly. "I suppose you would call that chiffon 'squishy,'" she smiled. "Where is it?"
"I don't know," replied the boy, hesitatingly. "That is, I don't know where it is now, for—I sold it."

"Sold it!" exclaimed the girls, in chorus.

"Yes. I noticed it didn't have a mark on it, but we were doing such a rushing business that I didn't want to bother anybody, so when an old lady said it looked pretty mused, but she'd take it for the gold braid on it if she could get it cheap. I let her have it for a quarter."

"A quarter!" the girl exclaimed again, and Leslie, sinking into a chair, said, laughing rather hysterically: "I wonder what sum you could get for this dress that goes with it!"—Youth's Companion.

A Great Distinction.
"Yes," said Mrs. Dumbley of Jefferson City, "I reckon that feller that writ out the declaration of independence deserved the honor." "You mean the honor of being assigned to write it?"
"No, sir! I mean the honor of being named fur our town. They called him 'Jefferson,' you know."—Philadelphia Press.

The walk over the L. and N. Limestone creek bridge has been completed and is now in daily use by pedestrians.

Mrs. J. Stewart Wallingford of Paris is here to attend the funeral of Mr. C. D. Russell, which occurs this afternoon at 2:30.

Mrs. Margaret Otto of Limestone street has returned home from a pleasant visit with her sister, Mrs. Matilda Stewart of Brown county, Ohio.

The twenty-four inch sewer main has been put down in Market as far as Fourth street. An eight-inch sewer is being continued on up the hill to the Hospital.

The meeting on Lawrence Creek, conducted by Elder T. P. Degman, is increasing in interest at each service, with Miss Sally Laycock of Russellville, O., leading in song. Everybody is cordially invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben T. Smith of Sixth street, will leave Saturday for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Farley at Huntington, W. Va. Thence they will go to Ironton, O., for a visit with Mrs. Smith's sister, Mrs. Jacob Berger.

Mr. D. Frank Frazee and Mrs. Frazee of Lexington were at Dover Monday attending the Golden Wedding of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Osborne. Captain Oscar F. Barrett and wife of Dayton and nearly one hundred other guests were present.

Several days ago Mrs. Catherine McGraw, in descending a flight of stairs at her home, corner of Third and Limestone streets, was seized with vertigo and fell down eleven steps. She was painfully hurt about the shoulders and hips, which confined her to bed for some days. She is convalescing but still experiences severe pains from her injuries.

Every last one of the old members of Council are out for a re-election, with several new candidates in addition. Is it the $3 per month or the distinguished honor of being a City Dad that inclines the many in offering themselves as a sacrifice in becoming a public servant? It seems that when a fellow is once elected to a public office he never wants to let go.

"I've Gwine' Down to Jamestown," is the title of a new Southern melody, composed by Mrs. Frances Goggin Maltby, wife of Mr. Lucien G. Maltby of Washington, Ky. The music is published by The George Jaber Music Co., of Cincinnati and is a composition in every way which reflects credit upon the fair and accomplished, author who has kindly favored THE LEDGER with a copy.

After summering at his plantation near Winchester, O., Colonel Robert M. Willett arrived Tuesday night to spend the winter in Maysville. He reports his chickens doing extra time in producing hen fruit, and his pumpkin crop beyond his most sanguine expectations. Mr. Willett is an agriculturalist of note, and will probably address the Mason County Farmers' Institution "How Not to Overdo Things on the Farm."

A dispatch from Carlisle says that the Nicholas County Board of Health has been called upon by Dr. McNew, Judge of Nicholas county to meet and take steps to prevent spread of diphtheria. In noting the above it may be the part of wisdom for the Mason County Board of Health to be on its guard and keep an eye to the windward. While Maysville, and the county as well, are practically free from this dread disease, carelessness and want of attention on the part of the Health Board in allowing the infectious disease to be brought here from an infected community, may result in dire consequences. The old and true adage, "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," would be applicable in this case.

HAGER AND UNION LABOR

The Eight Hour Printer, of Louisville, fires a few solid shot at S. W. Hager, the Democratic candidate for governor:

Samuel W. Hager, Democratic candidate for governor, opened his campaign at Lexington, delivering his speech printed by the Globe of this city. It will doubtless be circulated over the state. Of course it will not have the union label.

As auditor S. W. Hager voted to award the state printing to the non-union Globe company, why shouldn't he have the non-union Globe company do his printing in his campaign for governor?

Samuel W. Hager, candidate for governor, is state auditor and member of the state printing commission, which has persistently ignored all protests and pleadings of the union printers, and given the state printing to non-union shops; obtained the aid of trade unionists to pass a bill providing for a superintendent of state printing on promise to elect a union printer to that position, and violated the promise by electing a non-union ruralist instead of a competent man, a list of whom were furnished on request by the Typographical Union, and then again give the state printing to a non-union shop. This is the same Hager, who, of course, expects trade unionists to vote for him for governor.

Politics aside, we cannot conceive of any excuse a trade unionist can give for voting for Samuel W. Hager for governor or any other office.

S. W. Hager, candidate for governor, straddled the labor question at Lexington. On his record and reading a rat-printed speech, what better than a straddle could be expected?

A CHAPTER IN MR. HAGER'S TEMPERANCE RECORD.

In 1904 a brewing company applied to the county clerk of Laurel county for a license to establish a wholesale depot at Pittsburg in that county for the sale of their beer. Laurel being a local option county, the clerk wrote to Auditor Hager, the chief fiscal officer of the state, and was advised that it was his duty to issue the license which he did on July 1, 1904. Later the attorneys for the brewing company, not being satisfied as to the right of the clerk to issue the license, wrote Mr. Hager, the auditor, and requested to know whether the license should be issued by the auditor or by the county clerk, and Mr. Hager replied that it should be issued by the clerk.

In June, 1905, before the first license expired, an injunction was sued out by citizens of Pittsburg, Ky., and the clerk restrained from issuing the license. The clerk therefore refused to renew the license and the attorneys for the brewing company tendered the tax to the auditor, who, in accord with his former decision that the clerk should issue the license, and in obedience to the injunction, refused to issue the license. Thereupon the brewing company sued out a mandatory injunction to compel the auditor to issue the license. Judge Stout, an appointee of Governor Beckham, granted the injunction. The auditor appealed the case and might have refused to grant the license pending the appeal, but instead of doing this he issued the license, and drunkenness, debauchery and crime cursed the people of Pittsburg for nearly one year longer, when the court of appeals reversed Judge Stout and the brewery ceased from business at that point. In the meantime many indictments were found against them, and on appeal from fines in these cases the court of appeals decide, that neither Auditor Hager nor the county clerk could issue license in a local option county.

In Mr. Hager's eagerness to serve his friends the brewers, remembering, no doubt, the $3,500 check which the brewing combine had given to help his election in 1903, he neglected to ask the attorney general for his opinion on the law, but advised the county clerk, who must report to the auditor, to issue the license notwithstanding the local option law prohibited such action.

ded that the matter was entirely in the hands of Congress. The Secretary denied emphatically that the United States had any intention of disposing of the islands, said he had absolute confidence in the Filipinos, denied that he was disappointed at their ability to legislate conservatively, and asserted his belief that they felt their responsibility and acknowledged the necessity of supporting the American Government.

TO BE A WELL-DRESSED MAN OR YOUNG MAN YOU MUST WEAR CLOTHES

That correctly express all the small details of the season's vogue. In our mammoth stock of epic and span new clothing you will find the very garments you require to make you the "well-dressed man." We offer you clothes that the best custom tailor in the land would be pleased to have identified by his label. Our Fall Suits for men and young men have been greatly admired and purchased by many of the most critical men in town during the past week. If you seek a Fall Suit of correct style, of faultless tailoring, of excellent wearing fabric in exclusive weave, perfect in fit—then you should come and see the Suits at $40 to $25. At this price we show conservative styles as well as semi-extreme designs in both single and double-breasted cut, in the fashionable worsteds, cassimere, chevrons, and tweeds of dark browns, olive, blue and gray shades in checks, plaids, overplaids, stripes and mixtures.

Mr. John Bouldin of Tuckahoe is the champion raiser of big hogs. This morning he delivered to Emil Wels, the Market street butcher, two hogs that pulled the beam at 1,450 pounds. Each one was as big as an ordinary cow.

It is interesting to note that in Mr. James Childs' report of receipts from the Hospital Fund during the past week there is one check for a thousand dollars. When it was suggested that the same ought to accompany the gift, the donor simply remarked, "Don't mention it," as the girl said when thanked for a kiss.

The gage marks 10.6 and falling.

The towboat Ironsides has a cracked cylinder. She is at Pittsburgh.

The Joseph B. Williams is one of the big towboats tied up at Pittsburgh.

Most of the excursion boats and pleasure craft of all kinds have sought winter quarters.

There has been more water in the upper Ohio this year than coal operators could take advantage of.

The George Matheson has been engaged in towing ship timbers for the B. and O. transfer in the Kentucky river.

With millions of bushels South-bound from Pittsburgh, it is virtually a certainty that the price of coal will not be lowered.

Packets running between Cincinnati, Pomeroy and Charleston have been very fortunate so far this year. Low water did not interfere with their trips.

On account of the scarcity of loaded craft of the light draught variety, river coal operators were not able to make more shipments South on the rise.

Within a few weeks the Goldenrod, now tied up at Cincinnati, will start on her semi-annual trip on the Ohio, Kanawha, Tennessee and Monongahela rivers to establish lights and distribute stores.

The Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Company is said to be 50,000 tons short of supplying its orders for coal delivered by river. The Boaz and Duquesne, each with big tows, have started from Pittsburgh.

A monster petition will be presented to Congress at the session in December asking that the sum of $50,000,000 be appropriated for the improvement of Western waters at the coming session. The sentiment in favor of larger appropriations is growing.

Colonel Cal Kennedy was over from Aberdeen yesterday.

KENTUCKY CROP REPORT

Condition of Growing Crops Issued From Office of Commissioner of Agriculture

The expected frosts in September did not come, but on the contrary the warm weather during the month rapidly matured the bulk of the corn and tobacco crops and both are now out of danger from frosts, except a very small per cent of late plantings.

The prospect for the corn yield improved during September and is now 94% as compared with 88% on September first.

Eighty-two per cent of the Burley tobacco crop and 81% of the dark tobacco was cut and housed by October 1st. As compared with the yield of last year the Burley is 87%, while the dark is 81%.

The fall grass crop is reported in fine condition and live stock is consequently doing well.

The acreage prepared for wheat is 87% as compared with last year.

A HARD STRUGGLE.

Many a Maysville Citizen Finds the Struggle Hard.

With a back constantly aching, With distressing urinary disorders, Daily existence is but a struggle. No need to keep it up. Doan's Kidney Pills will cure you. Maysville people endorse this claim: Mrs. Mary Thomas, 204 Limestone street, Maysville, Ky., says:

"I am only too pleased to confirm the statement I made in the spring of 1900 recommending Doan's Kidney Pills, after they had relieved me of backache and other symptoms of kidney trouble. During the years that have elapsed since I made that statement I have had occasion to give Doan's Kidney Pills a further trial and I have found that it requires only a few doses to ward off attacks of kidney trouble. I can also point to the case of my boy, twelve years old, who at the time I first used Doan's Kidney Pills was troubled a great deal with weakness of the kidneys and could not control the secretions properly. I gave him Doan's Kidney Pills and he improved rapidly under their use. The relief he found has proved lasting and from his experience and mine I am certainly warranted in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Beware of Ointments For Catarrh That Contain Mercury.
as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system, when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is tenfold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, O., by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by Druggists. Price 75c per bottle. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.
